The bonds we were able to form with our classmates as well as the hands on experience we gained.
The course overall has been the best class I have taken from the amazing teachers to the test even though sometimes they can be stressful. It's worth it in the end.
Great course to get a head start on future career in law enforcement.
Hands on learning
This course is excellent training for a career in law enforcement.
This course is probably one of the best at Fresno State. They teaches the skills you will need in law enforcement and everything else! Great training and great experience.
I believe the strengths in this class are how it prepares you to be a Deputy Sheriff as well as it prepares us for patrol. This program gives you a job to help prepare you for the future as well as going on patrol and getting hands-on experience.
This course has so much Information and tactics that you learn that help you out in the career part you choose Strengths for this course is that it prepares someone who wants to do policing. It fulfills some requirements for when you are ready to start working.
One strength of this course had is that it is well organized and we are told from the beginning what is expected of us, so we aren't caught by surprise. The instructors are always assuring us that if we ever have any questions that we are welcome to ask them.
The discipline, the course was very straight forward and all the material was presented and explained
I really enjoyed that everything is hands on since you learn to apply it to real life situations.
The feedback of the program and the training that is done to help us out.
The strengths of this course is being able to do everything hands on and get the experience.
The strengths of this course was that we all knew what to expect and it's helpful in our own career paths.
Teaching students to be leaders and to be self-sufficient and independent
The strengths of the course were that instructions were very clear every class. Class participation was strongly encouraged and questions were answered clearly. All students were pushed and encouraged to work their hardest every session.
Instructors were very helpful
I felt as though each instructor that taught on a subject was uniquely qualified in that area.
More learning by watching, then doing the same, many good information.
This course is the most valuable course offered by Fresno state. There is no better class for a person wanting to be in law enforcement. I learn every single day and am far more advanced than my peers who have not taken the class.
The strength of this course would be all of the extra help you receive if you're struggling with something.
The strengths of this course would be the time and dedication the various instructors/training staff put into us cadets to ensure everything in terms of learning material is understood completely. I would also consider the overall professionalism expected from us cadets prepares us for our future in law enforcement.
Great instructors who are eager to teach, makes the class much more enjoyable.
The strengths of this course is that you are going through the POST academy part time all while still attending Fresno state and working on a bachelors degree. Also, no other class will teach you what crim-108 has to offer.
The Structure and presentation of this course has been the most detailed and comprehensive Criminology class I have taken in my time at Fresno State. What I see as the the biggest strength of this class is the instructors abilities to effectively teach about a topic in criminology so clearly. I was taught more on certain topics in the time span of a few hours than what I learned in entire semester long courses regarding the same topic. I would say the experience of the instructors and hands on aspect of the class are the strengths of this class that result in great teaching and training.
Patrol shifts
CRIM 108 is a great program to participate in. The 108 program provides its students with great experience and hands on activities that will benefit us later in our career. The handful of deputies that come out to the program is very helpful because not only do they share their personal experience but they give us meaningful insights to improve ourselves and to prepare us for what is going to be expected of us in the future.
The strength of this course was how everyone including myself were passionate about this class and kept pushing ourselves.
Discipline
organizational layout of the course was a huge strength
The experience and knowledge you gain is amazing.
